East Liverpool's Allotment For War Sufferers Is $7,000.

Plans for a county-wide drive to secure Columbiana county's quota in the national Jewish War Sufferers' solicitation will be laid at a conference to be held in the law library of the Lones, Hill and Davidson firm in the Pottery Building and Savings building Saturday night.

A brief preliminary meeting was held at 10 o'clock Saturday morning in the office of Attorney George E. Davidson, chairman of the county drive forces. Definite dates for the campaign will be established and quotas for each city in the county fixed at Saturday night's meeting.

The nation-wide drive opened Friday and many cities throughout the state of Ohio have already achieved their quotas. DANSEY CHILD MAY BE ALIVE

Accused Claims Boy Is Believed to Be In Collinsville, Oklahoma.

HAMMONTON, N. J., Dec. 27.—Edward H. White, whose son, Charles S. White, is now out on bail on a charge of having murdered "Billy" Dansey, today announced that he had received a letter from the chief of police of Collinsville, Okla., stating that the police there have under surveillance a man and woman who have in their care a lad answering the description of the Dansey boy.

In addition to the points covered by the official description of the child, the Collinsville chief of police stated that the boy has a mole on the left breast, an item which did not appear in the description sent broadcast throughout the country, but which nevertheless is a fact. The chief also stated that the lad had a slight affection of the eye, which was also the case with the Dansey boy.

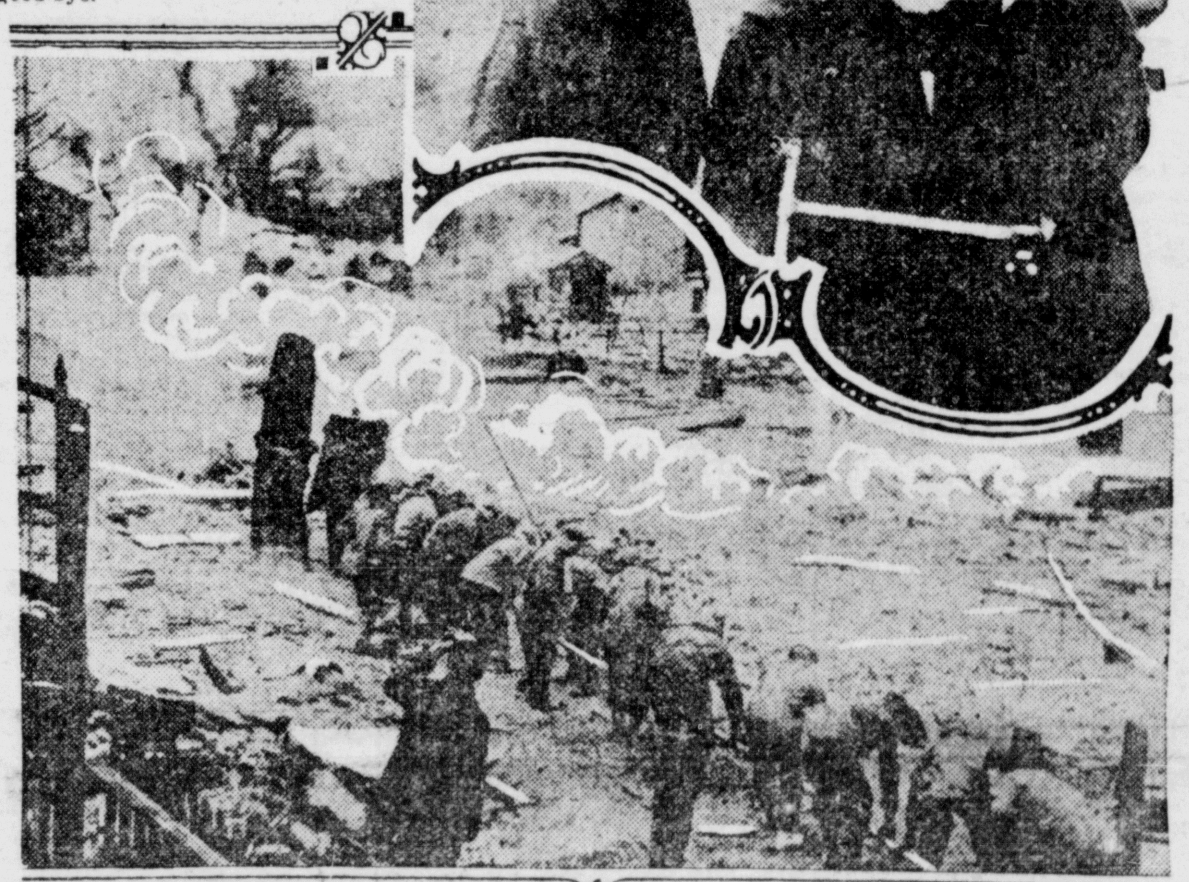

According to the police official the boy at Collinsville repudiated the man and woman, saying they were not his parents.

Mr. White turned the letter over to his counsel and has asked the Collinsville police chief for further information.

Prosecuting Attorney E. C. Gaskill, who is handling the Dansey case, is at the city.

SCORES IN HOSPITALS IN HORRIBLE AGONY; POLICE WARN OTHERS

Blindness And Paralysis Develop in Cases of Many Persons Who Are Victims of "Fake" Whiskey Sold in Western New England ---Several Arrests Made.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Dec. 2.—The death toll in the Christmas "whisky horror" had mounted to 66 this afternoon. Scores of others, made blind and plunged into great agony by a deadly concoction of wood alcohol were reported dying in hospitals and in private homes.

Authorities investigating the sale and distribution of the "fake" whiskey said that indications were that there had been a countrywide sale of the bogus beverage. Many deaths will follow before the warning can be spread, they feared.

The cities known to be affected by the poison beverage which was sent out of New York are:

Chicopee, 36 dead; Hartford, Conn., 13; Holyoke, 7; Springfield, 3; Chicago, 4; Pittsburg, Pa., 2, and New York, 1.

Find Cure For Afflicted

A cure that will save the lives of those stricken was found today by Dr. George Gagne, of Chicopee. Dr. Gagne adopted the old method of using leeches to take poisoned blood from the veins of his patients.

Alexander Perry, proprietor of the American House, Chicopee Falls, where much of the "fake" whiskey was bought and drunk, and who eluded the police yesterday, surrendered this morning. He was at once arraigned on the charge of manslaughter, connected with the deaths of Joseph Kina, one of the victims of drinking the wood alcohol, Charles Perry, his brother, and William Baker, both bartenders at the American House, are arraigned for manslaughter, connected with the killing of Michael Dendnatz. Additional charges of illegal liquor selling were preferred against the bartenders.

The defendants were held in $10,000 bond on the manslaughter charge, and $100 on the illegal sale charge and following their pleas of not guilty, the cases were continued to January 3.

Liquor Came From New York

The authorities have discovered that it was one single lot of "fake" whiskey that caused the heavy toll of death and great suffering throughout the Connecticut valley. The shipment was made from New York by automobile—12 barrels, which brought around $12,000, it is said. The first delivery was Hartford, which was the distributing point for the concoction. From Hartford the stuff went out by taxicab and auto truck on Christmas eve. The men responsible traded on the Christmas festive spirits.

Victims dropped in the streets, died in their beds, blinded and in many instances in violent convulsions. Most of them were without medical attention. They had been plunged in agony and the end was so quick they were unable to summon aid. All of the victims showed the same symptoms. Autopsies have been performed but the authorities have not given their findings.

The "fake" whiskey was retailed for 50 cents a drink and eight drinks were usually sufficient to cause death. It is estimated that enormous sums were made from the sale of the deadly concoction.

MIDLAND MEN FIGHT FOR LIFE

Slight improvement was noted today in the condition of the three poison victims and two coasting accident patients at City hospital.

Thomas O'Connor and John Dalley, Midland, Pa., construction laborers, have fully recovered consciousness and have a fighting chance for recovery. Both imbibed too freely of a home-concocted brew liberally mixed with wood alcohol to supply the required "kick" at a Christmas celebration in the Steel City Christmas night.

Clarence Bucher, 12-year-old son of Mrs. John Bucher, Shadyside avenue, was reported "slightly improved" Saturday.

15 MEN ARE ILL IN CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, Dec. 27.—Fifteen cases of wood alcohol poisoning in the past 26 hours had been reported to the police today. All are in hospitals in a serious condition. Fourteen deaths have been reported in the past month from this cause.

Mayor Davis will ask city council to pass an ordinance regulating the sale of wood and denatured alcohol and requiring the registration of all such sales.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—The appalling increase in deaths from wood alcohol stirred the municipal and federal authorities into a brand new investigation today in an effort to stamp out the traffic in illegal drinks.

Mrs. Ada Turner Kurtz, of the Kurtz Studios in New York and Philadelphia, will give her experiences with the A. E. F. Overtones, in the First Methodist Protestant Church Sunday evening at 7:30.

HEALTH BOARD STAYS ON JOB

East Liverpool Unit Will Continue to Function Next Year, Decision Reached at Meeting Friday Night.

The East Liverpool board of health will continue to function next year, or until more definite steps are taken to put the new Hughes Health law into effect, it was decided at the last regular meeting of the body Friday night at City hall.

Under the new Hughes act, all local boards of health in Ohio would automatically suspend activities and be replaced with district health boards. Statewide protest to the law filed with Ohio legislators resulted in the drafting of an amendment to the measure now pending before the Ohio general assembly.

Until the new law is clearly defined, East Liverpool's health governing body will remain intact, it has been decided. No effort will be made by Mayor J. S. Wilson, president ex-officio of the organization, to appoint a member to succeed John Dailey whose term expires this year.

The personnel of the new board when it reconvenes next month will be:

J. T. Croxall, president pro tem; C. G. Metuch, clerk; Ralph Benedum, D. F. Nellis, S. C. Williams and John Dailey; Dr. J. W. Chetwynd, health officer; D. J. McKeever, sanitary policeman; R. E. Hill, assistant sanitary policeman.

Water wells along Harker avenue, East End, were condemned and ordered closed Friday night. Need for the laying of a city water main along the street to provide a water supply to residents now relying upon these wells was emphasized. The well at the Grant street school building has also been ordered abandoned.

Nine cases of communicable diseases were reported last month, according to Dr. J. W. Chetwynd's report submitted Friday night. Of this number seven were scarlet fever and two diphtheria. Twenty-six deaths occurred during the month for the following causes:

Apoplexy 2, arterio sclerosis 1, infantile pneumonia 4, stillborn 3, organ to heart disease 4, Bright's disease 1, premature birth 4, mitral regurgitation 1, hardening of arteries 1, whooping cough 1, congenital weakness 1, appendicitis 1, puerperal hemorrhage 1, hemorrhage of stomach 1, infirmities of old age 1, accidental burns 1.

The physician, who said he is 52 years old, was formerly a naval surgeon, but since his discharge from the navy has been assisting in rounding up extremist agitators. He arrived in New York on December 19 from South America, having supervised the deportation of a "red."

Speaking over the long distance telephone, Miss Kenney declared that Dr. Vermilye "had always spoken the truth during the two years of his courtship and she had no reason to doubt it now."

"Dr. Vermilye promised to be here and I shall wait for him," declared Miss Kenney.

Miss Kenney resigned as professor of Spanish at Bucknell university for her marriage.

Dr. Vermilye at one time was one of the best known practicing physicians in east New York but resigned on account of ill health and went south. For a while he was connected with the Ocoee plantation near Midville, Ga., and later lived with his son, Dr. John Vermilye in Atlanta.

UNLOAD COAL FROM OLD MINE

Preparations for the mining of coal were begun about a week ago. The coal vein is located on the hillside, overlooking the street car line, just a few hundred feet east of Bradys cut. The hillside at that point rises perpendicularly for a distance of 100 feet from the roadway. At the top is the entrance to the mine.

The mine from which the coal will be taken soon is an abandoned clay mine, said officials of the sewer pipe company. It was operated years ago by T. F. Anderson, and its clay was used by brickyards in this vicinity. It was believed that its owners ceased operations there because of difficulty in reaching the entrance.

The American Sewer Pipe company has erected a long chute which will be used in the unloading of the coal. The chute, when completed, will be entirely enclosed. When operations begin next week, the chute will be filled with coal and loaded into trucks. The fuel will be used at the sewer pipe plant.

FIX $3,000 QUOTA IN JEWISH DRIVE

Wellsville's quota in the national Jewish relief campaign has been placed at $3,000 instead of $6,000 as previously announced, according to a statement Saturday by Albert M. Goetz, member of the county committee in charge of the campaign.

The drive has not been started here, said Goetz, though it was officially scheduled to begin Friday, December 26. No committee workers have been appointed as yet. Action by members of the county committee is being awaited, it is said.

The official quota for the city, said Goetz, was announced at Cleveland headquarters of the drive, the figures being based on the population.

WEEK'S REVIEW OF MARKETS

Stocks.
Liquidation has ceased, at least for the present, market commentators agree, barring the intervention of some unforeseen circumstance. Yet there seems little reason to expect any marked or very general advance soon. An irregular market is predicted for the remainder of the year. Perhaps the attitude is best summed up in the phrase used by one commission house, which "views the market constructively."

Sentiment reacted to the Edge bill, but expressed disappointment at the supreme court's postponement of a decision as to the taxability of stock dividends.

The status of the peace treaty creates uncertainty, although business men feel reasonably confident of its ratification in some form before long. The Edge bill, recently passed by congress, improved the feeling toward exchange and America's future trade, while passage of the Cummins bill at least gave proof of a desire to deal promptly and effectively with grave current issues.

Grain.
The strength in rye has been a feature of the grain market. It led in the advance to new high points in the season for all grains except corn. Trade in rye was large and prices moved within a wide range. Bidding for export lifted prices sharply. Export developments helped oats as well. In corn the movement remained the chief factor. Immediate receipts govern the trend of prices. The markets have been very erratic as a result. Foreign exchange fluctuations, too, have influenced quotations, as has the hog market. While the Edge bill and Hoover's statement that all the world's food will be needed to avert starvation were bullish, increased receipts intensified bearish sentiment.

Live Stock.
Improved railroad conditions were responsible for a break in live hog prices. Shippers have sought to unload the bulk of their porkers, forcing unusually heavy runs into the various stock yards, especially the principal western centers. The flood of stuff brought about declines, prices holding within a narrow range. Fairly good buying gave the trade moderate support, considering the volume of receipts.

While the recent break in cattle prices reduced the supply to some extent, Colorado and other points have shown a tendency to loosen up and get all the cash possible. Eastern demand in the face of comparatively small receipts on some days gave the market temporary support. Further decline in prices does not seem improbable. The better grades of cattle alone have shown improvement.

Wool.
The wool market has been quieter during the latter half than during the earlier half of the month with prices very firm on better grades. Medium and lower grade wools have shown some improvement. Contracting for wool on the sheep's back in Nevada subsided after the first wave. Overseas markets are generally firmer than early in the month. The goods situation, both here and in England, continues strong. Spinners and combiners are sold far ahead.

Metals.
Production of steel shows effects of the coal strike no more than consumption. Both are improving. The larger interests keep prices mainly steady in spite of meager supplies and the overwhelming demand. Charles M. Schwab predicts an advance in prices. Pig iron production is increasing, and demand is less impetuous than a few weeks ago.

Copper sales this month will in all probability set the year's high record, and the demand is improving. Consumers' stocks are low, both here and abroad. Periods of routine will alternate with periods of activity.

Cotton.
The year's cotton crop will fall 4,000,000 bales below the world's needs, asserts J. S. Wannamaker, president of the American Cotton association. A New York publication presents figures showing the American pre-war production over a five-year period as 71,000,000 bales, an average of 14,200,000 bales per year, against an outturn of only 56,500,000 bales during the past five years, an average of 11,300,000 per year. These statistics indicate a shortage of 14,500,000 bales. Exports to Europe during the same period were only 30,000,000 bales, as against 42,450,000 before the war. It follows that Europe is experiencing a veritable cotton famine, and that any substantial improvement in exchange will increase exports and give prices fresh stimulus.

Wool.
The wool market has been quieter during the latter half than during the earlier half of the month with prices very firm on better grades. Medium and lower grade wools have shown some improvement. Contracting for wool on the sheep's back in Nevada subsided after the first wave. Overseas markets are generally firmer than early in the month. The goods situation, both here and in England, continues strong. Spinners and combiners are sold far ahead.

THE DANGEROUS "KICK."

Despite repeated warnings given by the medical profession, the press and prohibition leaders, there seems to be a tendency on the part of some people in this country to boom business for the undertakers by using poisonous substances to put the so-called "kick" in concoctions being prepared as substitutes for intoxicating beverages.

One of the most dangerous of these brew ingredients is wood alcohol, a deadly poison.

The toll from its use in New England on Christmas was 45, with many critically ill; 15 persons are fighting against death from the same cause in Cleveland, while at the East Liverpool hospital are two members of a party of 50 who were similarly affected at a celebration in Midland.

Recently in New York, wood alcohol claimed the lives of 14 persons in one week, while many others have fallen victims to it at widely scattered points throughout the United States.

Notwithstanding the fact that most people know the result of drinking this poison, which, if it does not kill its victim, usually leaves him blinded, they continue to take chances by employing 2 to strengthened substitutes for liquor. If the practice continues much longer, cemetery associations will be kept on the jump securing enough land to meet the demands for burial grounds.

With the sale of liquor as a beverage outlawed, thirsty ones are taking big chances these days in purchasing illicit whiskey which unscrupulous persons, without giving a thought to the consequences to the patron, are selling. The best liquor when its sale was legalized, was none too good, and what the bootleg brand contains is a matter of conjecture.

Most people hesitate when they see a red flag in the day time, or a red light at night, for these are usually the means of attracting attention to danger. Perhaps a similar method of pointing out the fatal effects of wood alcohol and other concoctions now being used to produce a beverage with a "kick" in it would bring people to their senses.

THE PRIVATE BANKER.

A negro banker named Randall Washington Hunter, summoned before a federal court in Chicago to explain the failure of his three banks in Chicago, Gary and Pittsburgh, gave an entertaining and instructive account of his financial adventures.

He had started up as a banker back in 1914, with 10 cents capital. He did it because he "thought banking was a nice, clean business." His first bank, for some obscure reason, failed. Later he got two friends to contribute $200 each, and he himself "put in something," and we put up a sign, 'Savings Bank,' and people came in and gave us their money."

He was president, and his two friends were vice president and cashier. "We just put the capital at $10,00," says Hunter, "and we had no charter."

They have left, as assets, one $50 Liberty Loan Bond. "The assets went out in bad loans," says President Hunter. The thousands of dollars that have vanished came from trusting negroes. Hunter planned to extend his system to other cities, but was prevented by unexpected troubles.

This almost incredible financial farce is merely a glaring example of the sort of "banking" that is being done in dozens of American cities under the cloak of lax state bank laws, or where proper laws exist, in spite of them. It is such fake bankers that prey on the credulous poor of many a foreign settlement. Millions of dollars are thus lost, right along, by those who can least afford it, and banks in general are discredited with millions of people who cannot distinguish the trustworthy from the untrustworthy. It is to the interest of honest bankers themselves, as well as of the public, to insist on laws and law-enforcement that will make such swindling impossible anywhere.

WOMEN AND THE DEATH PENALTY.

Women in California have been dismissed from juries in murder cases because they declare themselves opposed to the death penalty. Men are often left out of murder jury panels for the same reason, in California and elsewhere, though nothing much is said of it. The matter is emphasized now merely because women are new to the jury business. There is nothing new in their objections to inflicting death on human beings in punishment for crime. In several states of the Union such objections are so common among citizens of both sexes that the death penalty has been abolished. Judging from present tendencies, it is only a question of time, and perhaps a short time at that, when there will be no more legal executions in this country.

It is hard to say whether this is wise or unwise. Certainly murder and some other heinous crimes seem to deserve death. But the criminal is not the only party to be considered. Execution requires an executioner. Nobody wants to kill the criminal directly, as citizens sanctioning the execution, when once they think about the matter. There are the questions, too, of whether the brutalizing effect of executions on society is not as bad as the brutality they are meant to correct, and whether any human being really has a right deliberately to cause the death of any person, for any reason, before his natural time.

Theories, however, have no great effect on public policies. It is the way people feel that determines them. The death sentence seems destined to abolition for the same simple cause that abolished the liquor traffic—people have outgrown it, and do not like it. That is enough.

President Wilson is not going to do anything in the treaty matter. "He is going to let it stay where it is at present," says Senator Hitchcock. Just like he handled Mexico. Same old watchful waiting. And in the meantime how about the expanding crack in the heart of the world?

NEW YORK LETTER

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—"The Gray Brothers," an aggregation of hard-eyed slinking men living on the crumbs of a happier period, are holding meetings at mysterious hours in a haunt that is the Tendorin hotel—a scene throw from Times Square. The clan is composed of former prison convicts who fear the police, yet it is the police who know they are meeting.

The leader is The Gray Ghost, a reformed convict, who has the gray pallor of prison still and gray hair and to complete the picture wears salt and pepper clothes. There is a 500-page novel in every life of these men and they represent the wrecks of a big city mobilizing far coming good.

Chiefly they want reforms in prison. They go so far as to let the news trickle to Newspaper Row that one of their members, now turned straight, has the entrée to the White House. Furthermore, he moves in the best society. None but those who have done time know his history and they guard it closely.

There are reports at police headquarters that two of the most able reporters in New York have been working for six months to learn the name of The Gray Ghost—who has been immortalized in fiction and the movies. But they can learn nothing save that he is a flesh and blood person and "running clean."

The rendezvous of the "gray brothers" is a Tendorin hotel whose grill contains a poem lettered on the side wall which indicates the creed of the ex-convicts. It runs:

This is the law of the jungle, as old and true as the sky
And the wolf that shall keep it
And the wolf that shall break it must die.
As the tendril that circles the tree-trunk,
The law runneth forward and back,
For the strength of the pack is the wolf,
And the strength of the wolf is the pack.

It means that a "snitch" will be killed and that only progress can be made by standing with the leader—The Gray Ghost.

This is a tale told along Broadway. And old-time man-about-town dropped into a certain bar near Forty-second street the other night and after talking with a group at a table said: "I'd give my right eye for a drink." Someone in the crowd to follow and took him to a place on Seventh avenue where boot-leg whiskey is sold. Two old-timers were ignorant of the chemical reaction and he "gave both eyes" in a hospital 48 hours later. He had been given a drink of wood alcohol.

Now that the cold weather has set in, the kindling women are seeping up from the tenement districts to Fifth avenue and Broadway hunting for bits of wood to keep up their fires and prevent suffering from cold weather. They are invariably old, with leather-like faces and blue lips. Their skirts drag; the pave and their feet peep out from worn-out shoes. Once they have collected their pile of wood they tie a string about it, put it upon their heads and with hands on their hips trudge back to their cheerless homes. The contrast with the glittering befringed women of the avenue is as striking as it is depressing.

SILK FROCK FOR LA JEUNE FILLE

The junior miss and the "sub-deb," are so often slighted by the fashion designers that almost any dress especially made for these hard-to-please and hard-to-fit young girls is welcomed by their mothers. This smart little taffeta frock is just the thing for the young miss. It is simple, yet its ruffles and panels artfully conceal any awkwardness on angular lines which are so often the main features of the young girl's figure.

Aches and Pains of Rheumatism Sometimes Almost Unbearable

There are weather conditions that make rheumatism worse. They are not the same in the cases of all persons. Some victims of this disease suffer more in dry warm weather than in moist cold weather, but all suffer more or less all the time.

The cause of rheumatism is an excess of uric acid in the blood, affecting the muscles and joints. Hence the blood must have attention for permanent results in the treatment of this disease.

Hood's Sarsaparilla has given entire satisfaction in thousands of cases. Do not fail to give it a trial. If a laxative is needed, take Hood's Pills—they don't gripe.

URGES PEOPLE TO FIGHT CATARRH WITH SIMPLE HOME MADE REMEDY

Can Make Pint at Home and Costs Little, Says Leading Druggist of Covington, Ky., Who Has Made Special Study of Catarrh.

Says: Inflamed Nostrils Invite Influenza

People who say that catarrh is a disease not to be taken seriously are harshly rebuked by a Kentucky druggist who has for years been much interested in the growth of this loathsome, yet altogether too common disease.

He claims that the sore, tender, inflamed membrane of the nostrils and throat is a prolific breeding ground for germs—not only the germs of influenza, but many other kinds as well.

If people would only stop experimenting for two weeks and try a simple remedy made of Mentholized Arcline mixed with enough boiled water to make a full pint, half of the catarrh in this country would be abolished.

It's really no joke for people who don't know about this simple recipe to be constantly sniffing and snuffing, blowing and hawking, when all these obnoxious symptoms as well as the foul discharge can be made to disappear in a few days.

Ask for three-quarters of an ounce of Mentholized Arcline—that's all you need and after you have mixed it with enough boiled water to make a pint, gargle the throat twice daily and sniff or spray some up the nostrils, as directed.

The tender nostrils will soon lose their soreness, heal up, and be clean and healthy.

BLOODHOUND TO BE PURCHASED

As a means of combating the band of thieves, who have been robbing Chester homes and business houses, a movement was started among business men Saturday to purchase a bloodhound.

This action follows the bold robberies at the homes of Enoch Riley, newsdealer, in Florida avenue, and Mrs. Elizabeth Clapperton, a Red Cross worker, in California avenue, Christmas day, and also the home of Ira Lyons in the Mill addition, Wednesday evening. Silverware, jewelry, and other valuables, estimated to be worth approximately $200 were carried away from the Riley and Clapperton homes, while a $10 turkey was secured from the back porch of the Lyons residence.

According to the plan of one business man, who has already conferred with other residents of the city, local people will be asked to contribute to a fund of $50 or $75 with which to purchase a trained bloodhound. The dog would be the property of the city and could be kept at the fire station or city hall. The minute a theft is reported the dog could be put on the trail of the culprits while the scent was still "warm." By this means it is believed persons responsible for the thefts could be traced.

Several members of the city council have already given their approval to the plan and it is likely that the proposition will be put up to Mayor Dalrymple soon. A paper, soliciting contributions to this fund, will be placed in circulation here some time next week.

Only a few weeks ago, several refrigerators in the vicinity of Virginia avenue and Third street were robbed. It is believed that a party of boys or young men are responsible for the greater part of the thefts.

POLICE DRAGNET OUT FOR HOUSE ROBBERS

The Chester police have asked the authorities of East Liverpool and other nearby towns to assist them in apprehending a party of thieves who are believed to be responsible for two daring house robberies here Christmas day.

It developed Saturday that the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Clapperton, California avenue had been robbed Thursday a gold wrist watch and a gold mounted fountain pen valued at $75 being secured. The theft occurred early in the evening, for when Mrs. Clapperton, who is a Red Cross worker, returned home about 11 o'clock Thursday evening, she found the interior of her house turned topsy-turvy by the thieves in their search for valuables.

Entrance had been made through a window in the home which had been left unlatched. Once inside the house the perpetrators lowered the window shades in order that they would not be observed by outsiders. The bold thieves made their exit through a rear door, not stopping long enough to close it.

No clue has been found to the persons responsible for the robbery of the Enoch Riley home in Florida avenue Thursday evening, when silverware and valuables estimated to be worth close to $100 were secured.

TURKEY FOR XMAS DINNER WAS STOLEN

A 14-pound turkey, intended for the Christmas dinner, was stolen from the back porch of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Lyons of the Mill addition, Wednesday night, it was announced Saturday. The robbery was not reported to the police.

Mrs. Lyons had dressed the fowl early Wednesday evening and had placed it on the back porch. Later in the evening she had occasion to step out to the back porch and to her surprise the turkey had disappeared. Mr. Lyons traced the culprit by foot tracks in the snow, but lost the trail in the street where the path was well beaten.

When Policeman Marries Policewoman

"Don't Be Running Off With My Good-Looking Cops!" Said the Police Commissioner, But Pretty Katherine Hyde, Policewoman, Was Captured, Just the Same, and Here's the True Story.

"We found our work a great source of happiness."

YOU have your own way of thinking about policemen. And in that newer personage—the policewoman—what you may think will be still more a matter of speculation. So that there is an element that you must take into account, just because there are policewomen. Our old friend Propinquity is on the job. If the business man is to wed his stenographer, the surgeon to marry his favorite nurse, the artist to marry his favorite model—well, nearness and acquaintance must have their way, and you must begin to expect that no policewoman is going to escape Cupid just because she has a stern responsibility that isn't supposed to be concerned with love at all.

By Helen Hoffman

DON'T be running off with any of my good-looking cops." This was the friendly warning given by Commissioner of Police Enright, as he smiled his good wishes for the success of Miss Katherine B. Hyde, one of the first six women police reserves to be appointed a year ago.

Miss Hyde was the youngest of the group, being only 23. She also bore the distinction of being the prettiest. She is tall and fair and gentle in her speech and manner. And even a year spent in meeting all kinds of people, where her duties took her into the slum districts of New York, including that section of the Bowery which takes in Chinatown, Miss Hyde remains the high bred feminine type of woman, to whom any good man was likely to be attracted.

The Police Commissioner's Warning

When Commissioner Enright cautioned her against "running away with one of his boys," as he calls them, Miss Hyde replied, with a girlish blush: "Ridiculous."

But Cupid was even then smiling at her retort.

Commissioner Enright is a friend of Miss Hyde's father, so her romance, which has just culminated in her marriage to Henry Schneider, of the New York Police Detective Bureau, is regarded by Commissioner Enright as a sort of family affair.

Miss Hyde is the first policewoman to marry into the force.

"I should like to continue my work," said the pretty young bride, "but my husband doesn't want me to. He prefers I should keep house, so we are looking now for an apartment."

But Mrs. Schneider, who "made good" in her work, as her associates say, is enthusiastic over police service for young women.

"It's wonderfully interesting work," she said, "and there is such an opportunity to do good. It was this that first attracted me to my husband. We worked together on many cases, and it was the great respect shown him by the toughest boys of the district that also won my respect for him."

"Often we would pass one of humanity's wrecks, as it would seem, dirty and ragged and somehow out of tune with the world; but no matter how low the man had fallen, his hat always came off as he noticed the young policeman 'with a lady,'" explained the young woman who had exchanged her police badge for a wedding ring.

"I met my husband shortly after I began my service. My work was largely welfare work, and my first case was that of a missing girl from Passaic, N. J. The family urged the police department to locate her. It was believed she had run away with a young Italian, so Detective Schneider was asked to try to trace the girl through the boy, and I was to use my woman's ingenuity to find the girl. We worked together on the case a few days, then suddenly one night, walking through the streets of Chinatown, I noticed a girl standing in the shadow of one of the funny little buildings, and she was crying.

The Girl in the Street

"I went up and spoke to her. She was hungry. The boy had deserted her, and she had come to this quarter looking for him. After a while she confessed to us that she was the girl we were looking for."

"Of course in this work one's illusions gets plenty of jolts. One of these is about men. But although I learned from my experience that men do make a lot of trouble in the world, and that many of them are very bad, yet my experience did not shake my faith in men.

"One reason, too, I suppose, for this is that I have five brothers and an excellent father. My husband doesn't dance, while I love dancing, but I realize, from what my work has taught me, that dancing men do not necessarily furnish any guarantee for the making of good husbands. The truth of the matter is that many of them do not."

"I believe from the knowledge of life that I gained in my year of police work that men who know life, that is to say, men who know humanity and are interested in human beings, knowing full well their frailties and their virtues, make the best husbands."

"Such men when they marry and settle down know exactly what they are settling down to," said this young philosopher. "A man who has seen both sides of life, and knows that he wants only the one kind, that of truth and honor and self-respect, will make a woman the best husband. She is sure of him. She knows that he is the kind that doesn't care to wander from the fireside, because the life that lies beyond the family hearth does not appeal to him."

"If it did he wouldn't marry."

Working Together

"My husband and I were tremendously interested in working together. We found our work a great source of happiness, because opportunities are constantly arising to help poor, struggling humanity."

"I believe two people interested in the same line of work are always certain to be happy. They have so much in common."

"Mr. Schneider says he has feared that a woman who sees too much of the darker side of life will be apt to become cynical and lose faith in human nature."

"Of course, my experience in the dark walks of life, where vice and poverty walk hand in hand, was a short one. But even in a year of such work one sees and learns a great deal. I just felt sorry for wrongdoers. They suffer so much from their misdeeds."

"And of course," confessed the young bride, "I didn't lose faith in men. After knowing that there are many unworthy, it is all the finer to meet and know the worthy type of men. I think a woman who becomes cynical and sneers at the world and its men and women, must be very unhappy. At any rate she loses the greatest happiness that human beings can possess—the high friendship of congenial people—people who can carry on the world's work side by side and enjoy the blessing of human companionship."

"Before I became interested in police work," said Mrs. Schneider, "I did some welfare work in connection with my church. I wish every young woman, whether she marries or not, could have my experience, for knowledge makes for happiness; half knowledge for misery, and in meeting various types of men a woman learns to distinguish the true from the untrue. She observes in their actions the qualities that count in the making of character, and after all it depends on a man's character, not the color of his hair or neckties, or how well he dances, what sort of a husband he will make!"

HIGH DEFEATS SOUTH QUINTET

Visitors From Pittsburg Unable to Give Local Passers Much Opposition.

The Blue and White found little opposition in the South High quintet of Pittsburg here last night, winning by the decisive score of 49 to 17.

The close guarding of the local passers and their all around general team-work prevented the visitors from reaching the basket many times. Followers of the High five are jubilant over the showing of the locals last night and predict a great season. The Pittsburg passers are showing enough form and actual basketball so far to give their high school cohorts visions of championships and such things.

Buxton was high score man for the local aggregation. Judging from his scores so far the local forward threatens to break all records here this season if his playing continues up to the present standard. Brown, Davis and Terry also got into the scoring column. Menge and Manton played well at guards. Armstrong, Blucher and Thurson started for the visitors.

The summary:
East Liverpool Pittsburg South
Buxton Armstrong
Davis Leonard
Brown Forwards
Terry Center
Menge Blucher
Manton Pemberton

Substitutions—Manton for Menge, Brown for Davis, Bromby for Brown, Mayer for Terry, Shverer for Pemberton, Voetz for Leonard.

TAD'S TID-BITS

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.

Dear Tad—Your interesting stories of great fighters bring to my mind the exploits of Les Darcy, who, while he was not allowed to show the great American public his remarkable fighting qualities, proved in his native land when pitted against America's best that he had everything they had and a bit more.

When you review the way in which he handled the five American boxers, men who covered every style of fighter, and consider the fact that he was only 21, and still growing, one cannot blame the Australians for thinking as they did that had Darcy lived, Australia today would have the heavyweight champion.

Take the five men I speak of. Gus Christie was first a rugged, game fighter and good puncher. Darcy beat him at everything. Eddie McGoorty, a deadly puncher, clever, and a fine ring general. Darcy showed McGoorty up. Then George Chip, a world's champion, representing another rugged type of fighter. He fared like those before him. Then Jimmy Clabby. He figured that speed and cleverness would do the trick. Darcy out-speeded and out-clevered Clabby, giving the critics the surprise of their lives.

The matchmakers were stumped after that, and tried once more for a man to beat Darcy. They figured on one of the Joe Grim type. K. O. Brown, of Chicago, was brought over. Darcy not only outpunched Brown, but stayed right with him and actually outboxed him. It didn't matter what sort of a man they sent in against Les, he seemed to possess an appetite for all of them.

Yours sincerely,
FRED DYER.

BOB FITZSIMMONS, JR., STARTS CAREER IN RING IN EARNEST NOW: SHOWS CLASS

Bob Fitzsimmons, Jr., in fighting pose his dad taught him and at his favorite exercise of chopping wood. It was zero weather at Fitz's home in Nutley, N. J., when he posed in the snow.

Is the name of Bob Fitzsimmons once more to play a part in fistie annals in the next few seasons? May be.

There are those fans down east who wouldn't take the other end of the bet.

For the son of "Old Bob," the man who helped punch big chapters in the history of the heavyweight class, is starting out in earnest to gain fame as a fighter.

There's nothing new in the announcement that young Bob is in the boxing game. He has been boxing ever since he was old enough to "hold up his dukes." When he was still a little shaver Fitz taught him to pose like his daddy. Then he taught the lad simple punches. Later he taught him how to duck and feint, and counter. And then, before the boy had scarcely attained his growth Old Bob announced that his son could lick and white hope at large. And thousands of fans, with memories of and faith in the old man still strong in their minds, were willing to back his assertion "sight unseen."

The youngster, though, showed little desire to start on a ring career and friends say, the veteran star bawled the boy out roundly several times for lacking the proper spirit.

Then along came the war. Young Fitz got into it. Overseas he won some recognition and some confidence in his own ability by winning a battle or two in the roped arena. He was married a while ago. The fact that purses from fights would help knockout John William High Cost of Living probably gave him the needed impetus to take up boxing in earnest.

He stepped into the ring in Newark, N. J., recently and outpointed Ed Kinley, a light heavyweight, very handily. bout gave young Fitz a chance to show that he is clever and ought to develop rapidly. He used his left to advantage, but failed to give the proper backing up with his right.

He has the general build of his father except that his arms and shoulders have not been overdeveloped by several years in a blacksmith shop as were his famous dad's.

The young Fitz is now twenty-two. Mostly because he is old Bob's son he is in great demand and with a comestant manager to pick the right opponents for him he undoubtedly faces a bright future. So far he has refused to let anyone manage him, being leary of the leaches waiting around to sign him up to a contract for life with lump money as his share.

The second annual banquet and entertainment of the Weaver football team will be held Tuesday evening, December 30, in the Decorator's hall in the Smith building, St. Clair avenue. It was announced today.

Music, instrumental and vocal selections, speeches, talks, stories, jokes, everything, says the committee in charge, will be included in the program which is now being arranged for the occasion.

Featuring the affair will be two six-round boxing bouts and a first-part minstrel. This will be staged under the supervision of Directors Harold "Cheese" Aldridge and Eddie Stivason. The special end men secured for the occasion are to be Parson, Kinney, Stivason, Aldridge, Broadbent and McConnell. Soloists will be Coleman Lynch, Riley and Kinsey.

Not the least in importance of all the features on the program will be the big "feed." The official menu calls for minced ham, boiled ham, cheese, ice cream, cake, pickles and other good things in addition to the coffee and milk bread and butter and the other commonplaces.

CLEVELAND MAN IS HELD FOR BOARDER'S MURDER

CLEVELAND, Dec. 27. — Vida Ozanic today was formally charged with the murder of Nicholas Ozdrich.

The arrest of Ozanic cleared the mystery of the finding of a bullet-riddled body late yesterday near West Park. A trail of blood led officers to the Ozanic home. It was deserted. A Christmas tree, a score of scattered toys and several empty bottles indicated recent tenancy. Ozanic, his wife and their baby were located late last night and when arrested Ozanic is said to have confessed to the killing of Ozdrich, a boarder, claiming self-defense. A dispute over $10 caused the trouble, it was said.

OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY IN NEED OF COAL

COLUMBUS, Dec. 27.—With a supply of coal on hand, which will last only a few days, Ohio State university is hoping that the 25 carloads, which have been ordered and promised, will reach the university in time for reopening on January 6. These cars of coal are supposed to be on their way here now.

Carl E. Steeb, business manager, thinks the cars will arrive in ample time. He said the university would be hard hit unless some coal were obtained soon.

TO HELP CHOOSE LIST OF GERMANS TO STAND TRIAL

A Wide Margin of Safety

A MAN about to hire a chauffeur asked each applicant how near he could drive to the edge of a precipice.

One said a foot, another said six inches, a third said two inches. But the fourth said, "I keep just as far away from a precipice as I can." He was hired.

The wise property owner, like the careful chauffeur, prefers a wide margin of safety. He insures his possessions to the limit and then takes every precaution against fire.

Insurance only reduces your fire loss. That is why the Fire Prevention Service of the Hartford Fire Insurance Company is as necessary as insurance. Let us explain this service. It is free to all Hartford policy holders.

AT the Theatres

"PAIN IN ADVANCE" COMING TO STRAND

Gripping situations and scenes, masterful dramatic effects and an all-star cast—these are the attributes that will go to make "Paid in Advance," the new Universal super-production to be shown at the Strand theatre, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, a picture that will remain in the memory of every motion picture devotee.

The locale of the story is the Canadian Northwest, heart of the fur country, and Dawson City, Klondyke, in the stirring days during the gold rush to the Yukon region. James Oliver Curwood, an eminent writer of novels and magazine stories wrote the tale that inspired Allen J. Holubar, director of the production, to transpose it from the printed page to the screen.

With Dorothy Phillips playing the part of Joan Gray, daughter of a Canadian fur trader, who is lured to the Klondyke by promises of wealth; with William Stowell playing opposite the star; with Priscilla Dean, a star in her own right, appearing in an important part in this production, nothing is lacking that will make "Paid in Advance" an epic in the world of motion pictures.

Severe Cold Quickly Cured.

If you do not know how to get rid of a cold quickly should you not consider the experience of others who have found a way of doing so? Mrs. H. O. Barker, Little Falls, N. Y., writes "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy was used by my husband a year or so ago and it quickly cured him of a severe cold."
